Reburial Wednesday

CAPT. BILLY BATTE BRYAN

BODY OF AIR HERO IS HOME FOR BURIAL HERE

Funeral services for Capt. Billy Batte Bryan will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday, January 26 from the Chapel of the Marek-Burns Funeral Home in Cameron with interment in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Rev. Lee Lemons, pastor Frist Methodist Church, will conduct the church service and the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, together with the Military Escort will pay full military tribute in final honors to the hero of the Army Air Corps who took part in the invasion and subsequent air fighting in Europe.

At long last, home for re-burial, Capt. Bryan is among old memories to-day, and home folks who saw him go to War, are recalling his early youth. Like many others Capt. Bryan is a fine tradition among a people who have sorrowed much in giving their sons to die for causes that called for the supreme sacrifice.

Captain Bryan was born in Waco but reaerd in Cameron.

Captain Bryan volunteered for the Army Air Corps and began his training to become a fighter plane pilot. He received his wings at Foster Field in Victoria, Texas on October 10, 1942 and his first assignment with the army combat services was at Orlando, Florida and later was at the training center at Leesburg, Fla. later going to Keystone Field as an instructor.

Captain Bryan was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bryan of Cameron, his mother having died some years ago. A sister Miss Judith Ellen Bryan, also survives and lives in Cameron.

Shortly after the fighter outfit to which he was attached reached an English base, Capt. Bryan was one among 10 Texas pilots to get their first taste of battle over France.

On the day of the invasion of the continent, Capt. Bryan, on June 6 was among the heroes of telling action that drove German planes from the troop zone. On the day of the invasion he was one among a number of Texas flyers who were the first to reach the invasion coast and engage the Germans. In the battle that ensued. Capt. Bryan shot down two German planes and may have shot down a third. He became separated from his formation and suddenly discovered two Messerschmits on the tail of his ship and two other Germans moving for the attack. He maneuvered his ship out of danger and into combat position, getting two of the Germans and badly damaging another.

Capt Bryan then executed a dive of several thousand feet to shake off other planes coming in and made his way finally back to his home base.

The information on this exploit was contained in official statements released following the big air battles incident to the invasion.

Shortly after the opening days of the battle Capt. Bryan shot down another German plane, making three and later two other German fighter planes are believed to have fallen before the guns of his Thunderbolt.

Captain Bryan was killed in a plane crash in England while on his way for a leave of absence to rest from his battles. The accident occured on July 2, 1944. Along with other officers he had left his base in France to go to the British capital for a rest.

Shortly after the plane crash in which Capt. Bryan lost his life John Bryan, father, received a letter from

FARM BUREAU TALKS OVER FARM PROGRAM

The AAA program was discussed at the meeting of the Milam County Farm Bureau in the district court room in Cameron last week.

George Fisher and Paul Dillon discussed soil conservation practices, terraces and drainage ditches, as soil building practices. Mr. Dillon discussed summer grasses and reviewed the farm program for 1949.

Frank Mitchell talked on co-operating with governmental agencies in helping the farmers. William F. Arthur, GI teacher in Cameron, reviewed the work of the GI classes. The regular business meeting followed the program and reports were given by the secretary while the president presided.

Plans for the Milam county Farm Bureau Day, which is Feb. 17, were completed. Special guest that day will be Murray Cox. The program will begin at 10 a. m. Smallest Telephone System In Texas Is Operating At Maysfield Know where the smallest telephone exchange in Texas is located? It's at Maysfield, in Milam county, near Cameron; fittingly enough, it's owned by the smallest telephone company in the state, the Maysfield Telephone Company.

The Maysfield exchange couldn't be any smaller—according to Southwest Bell records, it has had only one telephone, a business phone, during the last five years. The instrument is in the Freeman general store at Maysfield, where the 150-line magneto switchboard is also located. It is connected to Southwestern Bell by a seven-mile rural line from Cameron.

Twelve lines of the switchboard are equipped, but for years no one has applied for service. J. C. Freeman is president of the Maysfield Telephone Company, and W. C. Freeman is Secretary.

JANUARY 31 LAST DAY FOR VOTE QUALIFYING

Poll Tax Payment in 1949 is as important as in any other year and only a few days remain in which you may qualify for voting.

The deadline for payment of your Poll Tax is January 31.

In off political years voters are apt to regard their poll tax duty lightly. Under Texas laws one may not cast a ballot if he be in the voting age and did not pay his poll tax. If a voter lives in an incorporated city he must pay both his city as well as county and State Poll Tax.

True there will be no geenral Primary Elections in 1949 but there are certain to be other elections that may be more important.

The Democratic Way of Life, so important in the world to-day has no stronger manifest than the ballot box. Through voting we achieve the ultimate in freedom and thereby hangs the fate of all our liberties.

Remember, it is not only a privilege, it is your duty to Pay Your Poll Tax.

Some people are fenced off from success by their own railing.

12 Year Old Ensilage Is Still Good Feed Says G. A. McDermott

Ensilage put up 12 years ago on the Giles A. McDermott farm near Marlow, is still good, in fact so good the livestock on the farm fight for it and when sprinkled with meal is a choice diet for the beef and other cattle being fed.

Mr. McDermott brought a jar of this ensilage to The Herald Friday. It is as fine and sweet as when first cut and placed in the trench silo, and that was 12 years ago. Mr. McDermott says that through the years he has kept the ensilage well covered, pulling dirt over the feed bed from time to time as needed.

Years ago when the trench silo was first mentioned farmers and stock men were more or less skeptical but they had seen the tower silo made of wood and cement succeed in preserving green feed for livestock. The full worth of the trench silo is certainly proven in the case of the trench on the McDermott farm. Mr. McDermott has not only found a way to preserve surplus feeds but has all the freshness of newly mown growth.

When the ensilage is put down it is sprinkled with water. The moist earth then keeps it through the years as a ready source of feed.

Poll tax payments in the county were far below average but an increase in the past few days was noted. LeRoy Massengale, chief clerk, said that the office had issued about 2700 up to Wednesday.

Bad weather may be responsible for the slow payments and with only a few days remaining business should be brisk. Taxes not paid after January will bear penalty.

BIDS ON ELM CREEK BRIDGE FEBRUARY 16

Bids for construction of a new bridge and causeway across Elm Creek north of Cameron on Highway 77 will be taken by the Texas Highway Department on February 16, it was announced here Saturday morning by Judge Dan Tyson.

The construction of the new bridge was authorized two years ago and recently engineers for the Department made surveys to lay foundations for the new causeway.

The causeway will replace the old wooden structure across Elm Creek north of the municipal airport.

While the bridge was under consideration some months ago the construction is considered a part of the plans of the Highway Department for Highway 77.

The Highway Department agreed to construct this highway last summer and the Commissioners Court agreed to get the necessary right of way. The court could not obtain signatures to deeds from land owners and authorized condemnation proceedings but thus far no action has been taken.

You're likely to get shocked when you step on anybody who is a live wire.

JESTER EXPECTED TO ASK CHANGE IN SYSTEM

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 25— Gov. Beauford Jester is expected to ask quick action Wednesday on the hot legislative program to enact into law Gilmer-Aikin plans to improve public schools.

The program was launched in the Senate Tuesday as the first three bills to revamp education from state administration to the classroom through a $180,000,000 program were introduced.

These bills cover the hottest issues in the sweeping plan to revise public schools recommended after eighteen months' study by the Gilmer-Aiken state-wide committee.

The first bill calls for reorganization of the state school system.

It would abolish the office of State Supt. L. A. Woods and the present appointed 9-member State Board of Education. It would instead elect a board from nine districts which would appoint a state commissioner of education.

The second bill would set up the standards for what it calls a minimum foundation school program.

In effect this guarantees a high school education to all children, more and better teachers, a broader study program and more state funds to finance the program. It also revises the method of supporting public education.

The third bill sets up the state fund that would provide money for the program.

Governor Jester late Tuesday readied his recommendations on the proposed program.

It is expected to go to the Senate Wednesday. It is understood the Governor will submit the report of the Gilmer-Aikin committee and ask for immediate consideration of the bills to carry out its proposals.

BLAZE AT MILANO WIPES OUT $10,000 G I PLANT

Fire early Saturday night destroyed the G I School at Milano.

Chas. M. Hicks, county superintendent, said early Monday that the loss is estimated at about $10,000.

There was no immediate explanation of how the fire originated. Students at the school use the building at intervals and obtain key from a nearby member of the board, it was explained. It is thought that the fire may have resulted from an oil stove, since gas had not been piped to the building.

In addition to the loss of the building all equipment was destroyed. The equipment included machine tools, Lathes, drills, saws and all of it purchased for the school. Mr. Hicks explained that if the equipment and building had to be replaced at present prices, the cost might run as high as $15,000.

It was said that some $8,000 in insurance was carried on the building and equipment.

The Milano school was one of six G I School in the county.

Fire fighting equipment from Cameron and Milano sped to the fire but nothing was saved. Adjoining buildings were protected by the fire fighting equipment.

Total January Rain 4.14 Smith Reports

A total of 4.14 inches of rain had fallen in the Cameron area up to Monday, January 23 it was disclosed by L. W. Smith, local government observer.

Cameron had .42 inches of rain over Sunday and this brought the total to well over 4 inches for January.

A drouth of some 5 months has been broken. Farm operations were awaiting sunshine but more rain will be needed here and over this territory.

COLD TO CONTINUE IN CENTRAL TEXAS AREA

Cameron had a pleasant winter temperature over Tuesday night.

Cameron had another inch of rain or thereabout to bring the January total to over 6 inches.

L. W. Smith, government observer here, said that the gauge measured .76 inches Wednesday morning but rain continued to fall at intervals and melting ice might well be the basis to say we had another inch of rain.

The heavy fall came during Tuesday night. The low was 29 degrees and the ice coated trees and shrubs made a pretty picture for those who remember last July.

Cameron has had very mild temperatures this winter thus far. The present cold spell will continue through Friday but the weather should warm up some. More rain is expected and that will be welcome for much is needed.

(From the Daily)

Ice coated large areas of Texas Tuesday and for the next 36 hours the weather will be severe.

The low at Amarillo was 9 degrees. The high was 80 at Brownsville and the sun was shining.

Schools in the Gainesville area were closed and gas was restricted 40 per cent to commercial users by the Lone Star Gas Company in a large section of the state.

Snow was falling over the plains and a large area of the south plains and east portion of the state and predicted lows for this area was in the 20s. It was 24 degrees in Dallas at noon Tuesday.

Northeast Texas and central portions of the state were in for what may be the lowest temperatures of the year, still at no point in Texas had the weather become severe enough to warrant predictions of record lows. Highway transportation was hazardous and bus schedules out of the north were canceled. There was still some prospect of more rain, but freezing by nightfall.

Snow was in propect for Cameron. Early Tuesday a snow flurry raised hopes of winter mantles for the landscape but the fall quickkly melted or turned to freezing mist.

SEVERE FREEZE MAY REACH THIS SECTION

The predicted cold wave lived up to expectations late Monday and brought 27 degree temperature to Cameron for a low but best of all it brought 1.05 inches of rain bringing the total for January to 5.19.

L. W. Smith at the Community Public Service Company said early Tuesday that the low was 27 degrees.

A trace of snow fell in Cameron around 9 a. m. Tuesday but quickly turned to freezing rain. A severe freeze may be expected by Wednesday morning if the present trend keeps up.

Fort Worth had 21 degrees at 7 a. m. It was below zero in some sections of the Panhandle. Houston had a high of around 50 degrees Tuesday morning.

Advice against traveling the highways in this area was issued.

Temperatures were not as low as expected in any section of the state. Ice coating trees and roads and shrubbery here had largely melted by noon Tuesday but a hard freeze might be felt here Wednesday morning.

PRESIDENT PLEDGES NATION FOR PEACE

Harry Truman the Missouri farm boy who plowed the straightest furrow of anybody around Lamar, took the oath of office as President of the United States at noon Thursday and in his inaugural address pledged the United States to a new strong force in the world for peace.

At the same time the wiry little man who wouldn't quit and who drove for a smashing Democratic victory at the polls last November threw down the gauntlet to Soviet Russia and to all subversive elements in the world.

The President was toasted at an early morning breakfast by his old cronies of World War I days and then with Mrs. Truman and their daughter Margaret, went to St. John's Episcopal Church for a service and prayer before taking the oath and delivering his address.

Washington was a seething mass of well wishers for one of the most colorful inaugurals in the history of the country.

The President left no doubt that his administration would go all out for peace in the world but made it plain the United States has no intention of retreating from its position of opposition to Communism.

He struck a note of optimism by saying that Peace is abundantly possible but must be had on the basis of freedom for all nations and promised military equipment and advise for all countries who will co-operate in attaining the goal which is peace for his years in the White House.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Neubach of Buffalo, New York have announced the arrival of an eight pound and 13 ounce son born January 20, 1949, who has been named Paul Arnold. They also have a two year old daughter, Randy Kay. Mrs. Neubach will be remembered here as the former Pauline Laake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Laake.

We Get .30 Inches of Rain Here Friday

During the night .13 of an inch was recorded and since 8 a. m. the amount had reached .30. this figure was released at 10:30 a. m.

Weather forecasts were for rain and slightly warmer during the day Friday with much colder by Saturday if the expected blizzard hits this area.

Dick Depew of Dallas was home for the week end.

Lt. Paul Mukelroy, telling about the accident. Here is an extract from the letter:

"Please let me express my sincere sympathy in your time of sorrow of the loss of Billy. It was first at Kelly Field that I met Bill but I didn't really get to know him until we both went to Orlando. There we became the best of friends and I can say I have known no finer fellow, no better pilot. We had many plans together of things to come, after the war, on how we wanted to live.

"Billy did more than his share trying to get this thing over with as soon as possible. He proved himself to be the best pilot in the Squadron by getting the first two enemy fighters and let me tell you they were not easy to knock out.

"Mr. Bryan, you may be interested to know how the accident occured. Billy was one of the 5 aboard a C-78 flying to England for a well earned 7 day leave. I was there and they ran into very bad weather in a hilly section. He and the other fellows from our Squadron were passengers. Losing Billy was a great loss to the Squadron, both as a pilot and a great fellow, just how great no words can express."

Capt. Billy Batte Bryan was born in Waco on May 18, 1922 and died July 2, 1945 near London, England. He was 22 years old.

FREE WORLD PUZZLED OVER DEVELOPMENTS

NANKING, Saturday, Jan. 22 — President Chiang Kai-Shek retired from his historic role as China's leader yesterday and his successor reportedly agreed to send peace delegates to meet the communists.

Vice President Lo Tsung-Jen, thrust into leadership of stricken China when Chiang relinquished his 22-year command of the government was in constant consultation with his top advisers.

One of these advisers said Li had agreed to send the delegates, but no decision was reached on those to go.

The communist radio suggested yesterday that delegates be sent to meet the Reds.

(There was no further mention of this broadcast, which was not heard in San Francisco. Whether it was made after the announcement of Chiang's retirement was not immediately known. It seemed clear that Li was acceeptable to the communists.)

It was expected that three prominent peace advocates in Nanking —former Premier Chang Chun, Gen. Chang Chih-Chung and Shao Li-Tze —would be asked to serve as delegates.

When Chiang flew away from Nanking late yesterday he left behind a statement so ambiguous that officials of his crumbling regime held it up until midnight. They revised it after conferring with Chiang by telephone at his ancestral home in Fenghwa, 210 miles southeast of Nanking.

As finally released, the official translation in English said:

"With the hope that hostilities may be brought to an end and the people's suffering relieved, I have decided to retire.

"As from Jan. 21, Vice President Li Tsung-Jen will exercise the duties and powers of president in accordance with article 49 of the constitution, which provides in the event the president for any reason is unable to perform his functions, his duties and powers shall be exercised by the vice president."

The text of nearly 400 words continued with a review of Chiang's devotion to the government and wishes for a lasting peace.

In New York Madame Chiang declined comment. She flew to Washington, Dec. 1 in a vain attempt to get large American aid to help her husband stave off communist victory.

What Is It? Strange Contraption On Display At Herald; Tell Us If You Know What It Is

What is it?

That's what we would like to know and that is what H. M. Akers has been asking a lot of people.

Well, Mr. Akers brought the contraption to The Herald Thursday and despite considerable knowledge of such things as antiques the newspaper big wigs were unable to classify it.

The thing is about two by three feet and is made of treated canvas, bolted securely at all corners and in the center is a depression resembling an old type loud speaker. These depressions join in the center and there is no outlet.

Well, it has stumped us so come in and tell us what it is. Mr. Akers says it must be some home made outfit and so far no one has been able to identify it.

Mr. Akers has brought in an old water pitcher and a lid for another household object of other days and says he will soon find the bowl and jar that goes with them.

PANHANDLE SHIVERS IN SUB-ZERO WEATHER

(From the Daily)

Look for colder weather by Saturday in the Cameron area but also don't be surprised if the blizzard passes eastward and misses Texas.

Rain was the more hopeful prospect out of the weather picture for the week end.

Another cold front was forecast to move deep into Texas by Friday night.

Amarillo, in the Panhandle, and Lubbock, in the South Plains, looked for it early in the morning. Their local forecasts said it would bring some snow, and bitter cold temperatures by Friday night.

By Saturday morning Amarillo expected near-zero weather, and clearing skies.

The U. S. weather bureau, in a general forecast, predicted occasional rain and snow and colder weather for the extreme northwest part of east Texas Friday.

It said slowly rising temperatures in the area about Dallas and Fort Worth should be followed by rain changing to sleet or snow and colder weather in that section by Friday night.

But it called for cloudy and warmer in the east and south parts of east Texas Thursday night and Friday.

Early Thursday some sections of the state had recorded their lowest temperatures of the winter.

Amarillo looked for southerly winds of around 25 miles an hour to shift to northerly winds of 30 to 40 miles in velocity early Friday.

Its forecast said that temperatures, dropped from an expected Thursday night low of 26 degrees, should reach 10 degrees by late afternoon Friday, and near-zero by Saturday.

The Lubbock forecast called for snow—generally expected to be light —over the South Plains Thursday night and early Friday. The weather bureau said temperatures would probably hold there in the 26 to 30 degree range until the new cold wave hit about sunrise Friday. Lubbock expected its lowest temperatures of the season Friday night.

Abilene looked for the norther Friday afternoon or night, with a low in the mid-20's.

Rain was forecast at El Paso, in far West Texas, with temperatures ranging from 36 to 42 Friday.

End To Price Cutting Sought In Bill By Senator Kyle Vick

AUSTIN, Jan. 20— Another attempt to outlaw price-cutting in Texas appeared in the Legislature today.

Senator Kyle Vick of Waco introduced in the Senate a bill that would prohibit either retailers or wholesalerss from trimming cigaret prices below cost.

Both Senate and House held only brief sessions before quitting until Monday in respect to State Comptroller George H. Sheppard, whose funeral was held this afternoon.

Major business in the House was unanimous approval of two resolutions, one calling on Congress to lift the tax on oleomargarine and the other asking for a change in the Federal Constitution to assure State ownership of tidelands. The latter had been given unanimous approval in the Senate yesterday.

The House's early adjournment left on the speaker's desk for possible consideration Monday resolution by Representative H. A. (Salty) Hull of Fort Worth to give Representaives $10 a day for business expenses in addition to the regular $10 a day salary. The proposal has been awaiting action two days.

Other bills introduced in the Senate today included one by Senator Gus Strauss of Hallettsville which would require railroads to operate at least one schedule daily, Sunday except, on all passenger lines as long as combined freight and passenger service on the line is making a profit.

Representative Fred Niemann of Yoakum said he would introduce the same bill in the House. He said such a law would prevent discontinuance of present passenger service between Waco and Yoakum.

Mrs. L. E. Killen received word Sunday telling of the death of her brother, R. D. Wright of Artesia, New Mexico. Funeral services were held there on Monday, with interment being made there also.

Mrs. Homer Nabours and Mrs. John House visited in Temple Thursday of the past week.

The Masters degree team of the Masonic lodge of Cameron went to Taylor Thursday evening to confer the masters degree upon W. W. Markham's son who lives in Taylor. The Taylor ladies prepared a splinded dinner for the visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Arnold and daughter, Brenda Ann, Mrs. B. C. Cluck and Doris June of Texas City spent the past week end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Story.

Friends of Mrs. Minnie Becker will regret to learn she is ill and in Newton Memorial Hospital for treatment.

The time will come—may have already come—when selling goods, wares, merchandise and services—demands sales effort.

Don't be left at the post. American stockpiles are high. Production has proceeded with a record clip. Never before has American industry turned out so many goods. True, distribution is still slow but how long will it be slow.

Buying power is the index to the future of retail business. In the farm country, rain and good seasons are big factors and so we have both. We have merchandise. The people have money.

MICHALKA MOTORS HAS NEW STUDEBAKER CARS

New 1949 Studebaker passenger car models will be on display here Friday and Saturday by Michalka Motors 204 S. Travis.

A long list of improvements in the new Studebakers is highlighted by an interior luxury which in its modern touch produces an effect in keeping with the best in home decoration, according to Henry Michalka.

Mr. Michalka pointed out that in some models the seat backs and cushions are in different and harmonizing patterns, set off by striking two-tone contrasts between upholstery and the side-walls and headlining. In addition, he said, there is a notable stepping up in the performance of both the Champion and Commander engines.

As he pointed to the features of the 1949 Studebaker models, Mr. Michalka issued a general invitation to the residers of this area to visit his showroom for an inspection of the cars as well as to obtain an explanation of the latest improvements.

The unique, long-wearing, soil-resisting nylon fabric pioneered for automobile upholstery by the company in 1948 is continued in the Studebaker Land Cruiser but in a new colorful patern. Alligator leatherette is used for trimming doors, arm rests and for upholstery piping in Regal Deluxe models.

Among other changes, Mr. Michalka pointed to increased luggage space in the trunk, massive redesigned wrap-around bumpers and a parking brake with a push-button release to guard against accidental releasing of the brake.

Sandra Marie Barta little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Barta of Cameron is in Newton Memorial Hospital for treatment.

BLIZZARD SCHEDULED FOR CAMERON TUESDAY

(From the Daily)

Look for freezing temperatures here by Tuesday.

A blizzard was on its way through Texas and preceding it rain had come to many dry sections, Dallas reporting over 3 inches Monday morning.

Sub-zero weather was due in the Panhandle and in East Texas in the lower twenties if the blizzard comes through as scheduled. Meanwhile it would be very hot and humidity very high.

Cameron had .42 inches of rain over the week end. The grand total since January 1 was 4.14.

West and north Texas braced itself for another severe norther which is expected to bring zero weather to the Panhandle late Sunday night or early Monday morning.

The severe cold is expected to bring sharp drops in temperatures in the interior of the state. The weather was generally mild and damp over Texas Sunday .

The weather bureau said the norther probably will bring rain and snow to north and west Texas, although precipitation was expected to be light.

Temperatures were expected to range from zero to 10 above in the Panhandle tonight, 10-20 degrees in the South Plains and 20-30 from the upper Pecos eastward.

North east Texas also was expected to undergo severe cold with 10-20 degree lows in the upper Red river valley and 25-35 in the extreme northwest part of east Texas Sunday night. Much colder weather was forecast for the interior of east Texas Monday.

Rain forecast for Sunday night was expected to turn into snow in the Panhandle, South Plains, upper Pecos valley eastward, and the northwestern part of east Texas.

The cold wave will contrast sharply with Sunday's temperatures, when few points reported freezing weather. The minimums early Sunday generally were in the middle and upper 30s in the Panhandle and South Plains and the 50s in the rest of the state except along the coast, where 60-degree-plus readings were reported.

Maximum temperatures Sunday generally were in the 60's and 70's

Rain fell in most sections Saturday night and Sunday. Wichita Falls reported 1.55 inches. For the 24 hours ending at 6:30 p. m. Sunday, the weather bureau reported .54 inch at Fort Worth, Lubbock .49, Austin .48, Dallas .43, Abilene .17, Palestine .16, Waco .14, and Corpus Chriti .10 Earlier, rainfall was reported at Big Spring, Wink, Del Rio, Junction, Clarendon, Guadalupe Pass, San Antonio, and Salt Fork.

Lelia Lee Batte and Joseph Samuel Hickman Married In Church Ceremony In Cameron Sunday, January 23; Reception At Sycamores

The marriage of Miss Lelia Lee Batte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Batte, Sr., to Joseph Samuel Hickman, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Hickman of Jones Prairie was solemnized Sunday afternoon, January 23, 1949, at five o'clock, at First Methodist Church, Cameron.

The Rev. Lee Lemons officiated at the double ring ceremony. A prelude of nuptial music was by Albert Russell, organist of Baylor University, Waco, and Mrs. D. L. Lindsey, Jr. of Dallas sang, "I Love Thee", by Edvard Grieg.

Ernest Vogelsang Batte, brother of the bride and Buddy Shipp, her nephew lighted the candles.

Wedding vows were said before an altar with a background of Woodwardia fern and Pyramiding of standard baskets of Picardy glads and Huckleberry fern, and candelabras holding aqua tapers. The baskets and candelabra were decortated with aqua satin bows and glads. Isle markers were also indicated with aqua satin ribbons and tiny corsages of glads. Arrangements of Picardy glads and aqua heath were placed on the organ, paino and communion table. The altar approach was laid with a white rayon carpet.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Robert Lee Batte, Sr., a striking figure whose handsome, commanding personality lent distinction to the procession climaxing the brilliant wedding ceremony.

The bride was beautiful in a wedding gown of white Slipper satin fashioned with a set-in-yoke of French Alencon lace embroidered with seed pearls. The sleeves were long with a band of pearl embroidered lace extending over the hand, and the elongated bodice fastened down the back with self covered buttons. The very full skirt terminated in a formal train. Her finger-tip veil of bridal illusion fell from a crown of encrusted pearls edged in a narrow pleated ruffle of French Tulle. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom. The traditional "Something borrowed, something blue and a six pence in her shoe" was carried out. Her gorgeous Cascade bouquet was made of three large Hybird archids showered with Vanda orchids intertwined with French Tulle and glittering Tricotene. She carried a dainty lace handkerchief given her by Mrs. Ralph Koepf, one of her bridesmaids.

Miss Catherine Monroe attended the bride as maid of honor and bridesmaids were: Mrs. Ralph Koepf, Mrs. Lyle McDermott, and Misses Abbie Reese Harvey and Shirley Horstmann. All wore identical gowns of aqua marquesette over taffeta, fashioned with low cut neckline, fitted torso and puff sleeves. The skirt was made very full. They wore small off-the-face satin hats with shoulder length veils, and carried aqua satin muffs showered with token roses. Each wore a single strand of pearls, gifts from the bride.

Merlin Lester served the groom as best man, and Hilliard Thomas, Ralph Koepf, W. T. Whatley, Jr., and Jack Stidham were ushers.

Mrs. Batte, mother of the bride chose a gray crepe dress for her daughter's wedding and wore gray accessories with a dark purple flower trim hat. Her corsage was a Dendrobium orchid. Mrs. Hickman, mother of the groom wore a dark purple frock with black accessories. She wore a small flower trim hat and a Dendrobium orchid.

Following the wedding ceremony at the church a reception was held at The Sycamores, the Batte home, a charming old mansion of Ante-Bellum architecture, resplendent for the occasion in honor of one of its most accomplished daughters. Here where Mrs. Batte found the inspiration and background for her novel, "Master of The Sycamores," the central character, Col. Richard Lee, a strong, romantic figure who in reality is Richard Lee Batte, Sr., hundreds of friends of a life time, came to say bon voyage to the happy young couple.

The bride's table was laid with a white satin damask cloth with lace inlay, and was centered with a large crystal bowl of white carnations, flanked by double branch crystal holders with white tapers. The beautiful three-tiered embossed wedding cake topped by miniature bride and groom rested to one side. Arrangements of white carnations were placed on the sideboards, and a profusion of glads and carnations decorated the reception rooms.

After the bride and groom cut the cake, refreshments of cake squares, chocolate covered mints, saute' nuts and coffee and tea were offered. White napkins inscribed, "The Sycamores" were used. Miss Monroe was at the bride's book and the bridemaids alternated at the coffee and tea service.

In the receiving line were: the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Hickman and Mrs. Batte. Members of the house party included: mesdames J. C. Martin, E. C. Cole, Alva Sanders, Seth Corley, Jr., Elwood Terry, R. L. Batte, Jr., Elvin Wiley and Misses Mary Belle Batte and Louise Kohl. All wore gardenia corsages.

Guests were invited up stairs where a gorgeous array of wedding gifts were displayed in two large bed rooms. Among which was a telegram from Governor Jester in which he extended congratulations and regretted his inability to attend the wedding.

The bride was born and reared in Cameron, where she graduated from Yoe High School. She attended Shreiner Institute, and received her degree in Music at Southwestern University and also holds a degree from Cincinnati Conservatory, after which she taught for several years. Mrs. Hickman is active in Church and civic work and is director of the choir First Methodist Church in Cameron.

The groom is a veteran of World War II, having served in the Pacific Theatre of Operations for several years as a member of the Air Corps. He now owns and operates his retail ice and grocery business in Cameron.

For travel the bride wore a beige suit with nut-brown blouse, with luggage brown accessories. Her hat of nut-brown straw styled with blouse crown was side trimmed with roses and attached veil. She wore the three Hybird orchids taken from her wedding bouquet.

After a wedding trip via New Orleans, Louisiana to Florida and Cuba the couple will return to their pretty country home located on the Salem road.

Guests from all over the state and a large number from other states were present for the wedding and reception. Among those from out-of-town were: Byron Colburn of Sommerville, Tenn., Mrs. Ed Hood of Memphis, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Day of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Terry of Seymour, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Wiley of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. D.
